

Clarksville Chronicle.

J. S. NEBLETT, J. A. GRANT, Local Editors.
CLARKSVILLE, NOVEMBER 3, 1865.

Positive Notice.—All persons indebted to the firm of NEBLETT & GRANT, before the war, are respectfully, but positively, notified that unless they will find their accounts in the hands of an officer.

To Advertisers.—All advertisements to be inserted in the Chronicle for less than six months, must be paid for when handed in.

Job Work must be paid for when delivered. These rules will be strictly adhered to.

Several articles, notices, &c., intended for this issue, are unavoidably crowded out.

Dr. L. L. Lorton has removed to the residence next to J. E. Broadbent, on 7th Street, where he may be found by those desiring his services.

Mr. Geo. W. Simpson is offering his stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, &c., at cost. Now is the time to get good bargains.

Courts & Beaumont, successors to R. A. Fisher, are candidates for public patronage. If you want Dry Goods, Boots, Shoes, or anything in their line, give this firm a call. See advertisement.

See advertisement of Tobacco Stemmy for sale, at Cadiz, Ky. This is valuable property, having all the houses and fixtures pertaining thereto. For terms, apply to S. F. Beaumont or W. H. Gillist, of this city.

Mr. W. T. Orr, one of the publishers and proprietors of the Nashville Union, died in that city on the 28th ult. He was a printer by profession, a true-hearted, high-toned gentleman, possessed of a high order of talent, and endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact. His remains were interred with the honors of the Typographical Union, of which he was an honorary member.

All persons having Books belonging to John F. House, Esq., are respectfully requested to return them.

Just This Thing.—We are indebted to our esteemed friend George W. Rice, with the firm of Rexinger & Co., for a box of handsome paper collars. They are very neat and nice, and if our "querr" don't fall in love with us when we see us with our new collar and cravat (from Matilda's), then there is no use talking.

Mr. W. A. Dosahorn, lately with Billy Pointdexter is now salesman for, Crisman & Chesnut, Grocers, on Franklin St., near the Market House. He is polite and attentive to customers, and possesses of good business qualifications, and we consider him a valuable auxiliary to any business house.

J. Rice, Bootmaker, on the west side of the Public Square, has on hand a large stock of custom-made Boots and Shoes, for gentlemen, and is also making up a lot of Shoes for the ladies. He has always sustained the reputation of being a finished workman, and we believe an examination of his present stock will satisfy any one that his work is unsurpassed, besides being made out of the very best material. After a perusal of his advertisement, give him a call and satisfy yourselves.

We beg our readers to notice the advertisement of KLEMAN & Co., and observe that WALTER NEBLETT, Esq., has taken charge of their establishment. Few young men have won a higher reputation in our community, as a young man of fine business promise and strict integrity, and we feel assured this reputation will bring the house he superintends an abundant patronage. And in this connection we will impart a secret to WALTER's numerous friends, which is that a certain prudent old "papa," has agreed to recognize him as a "son-in-law" whenever he succeeds in business. If his friends, then, will only help him, he will soon be the happiest man alive.

Prof. J. Tasso, the celebrated violinist, aided by Mr. V. McAnn, the ventriloquist, have been entertaining our town, for the last two or three nights, with most admirable performances in various branches. The audiences were large and highly delighted.

A BOLD HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—On Thursday night of last week, as Mr. James T. Moore, a butcher of this city, was returning home at about 9 o'clock, he was attacked in an alley above Fourth street, midway between Franklin and Main, by two ruffians, one of whom presented a pistol to his breast while the other rifled his pockets, taking from him about $300 in greenbacks and National Bank currency. Early next morning Mr. A. F. Smith, City Marshal, was apprised of the facts in the case, and at once went diligently to work to ferret out the scoundrels and bring them to justice. Mr. Moore himself was on the lookout, having received a vivid impression of the countenance of one of the rascals, and felt satisfied that he would know him on sight. About 8 o'clock Mr. Moore informed the officer that he was satisfied he had found the men who robbed him, and they at once proceeded to a Livery Stable on Franklin street, where the men were, and arrested them. They were very suspicious looking characters, and gave their names as Peter Conley and J. P. Coyne, the former having been from Waverly, Tenn., and the latter from Nashville. They had with them some five or six boxes, and professed to be regular horse traders. They did not appear at all disconcerted when nabbed, but on an air of "dajed innocence" said they had heard of the robbery the previous night, and expected to be arrested on the charge of committing the crime.

They were taken before Revere Faxon for trial, and Coyne was identified by Mr. Moore, on oath, as the man who rifled his pockets—said to Conley, who was uncertain. It also appeared in the course of the trial that they had very unceremoniously changed hotels the previous night—a very suspicious circumstance. The Justice deemed the evidence sufficient to commit Coyne for trial, who he accordingly did, and Conley was acquitted. A motion was then made by Coyne's counsel for a new trial at four o'clock, which was granted by the Justice and agreed to by the prosecution. When the Justice again took his first trial, Conley was introduced as a witness for the defense, and an effort made to prove an alibi. The prosecution renewed their original motion that Coyne stand committed for trial, taking the ground that Conley was, no doubt, a paripartu criminal, and although a competent witness in the eye of the law, his evidence should be taken with a great deal of allowance, and the court coinciding in this opinion, Coyne was held to bail in the sum of $2,000, in default of which he was set to jail, to appear at the next term of the Criminal Court, and answer the charge of grand larceny.

Coyne professes to be of good standing and the keeper of a Livery Stable in Nashville. If this be true, he will no doubt soon procure bail, and establish his innocence when his first trial comes off. In the minds of those who heard the evidence before the examining court, we think there remains but little doubt of his guilt.

Street robberies, though of less magnitude, have not been infrequent occurrences in our city of late, and there is every reason to believe that an organized band of thieves have commenced operations in our midst, and it were better that we prepare to break up the villainous enterprise, and by prompt action destroy it at its very inception. Every man who goes abroad after dark should be prepared for self-defense in any emergency. The city authorities should see that proper steps be at once taken to secure the peace and quiet of our citizens, to apprehend and punish these strolling thieves, and at the same time preserve the past good name of our city abroad, and the lives and property of our people at home.

OUR RAILROAD.—A meeting of citizens was held at the Court-house on Friday last, to take some further steps in regard to repairing the Railroad and re-establishing communication with the outside world. Judge Shackelford was called to the chair, and on behalf of the committee appointed at a previous meeting, reported better success than we had hoped for. Enough rolling stock had been secured to place the road in better condition, as regards freight and passenger facilities, than it ever was before; a bill was before the Legislature asking for an appropriation of $400,000 for the benefit of the road, which would no doubt pass; and it was only necessary now to raise sufficient means to bring the rolling stock from Nashville and repair the tracks at Red river. This much was expected of the citizens, and especially the business men of Clarksville.

Speeches were made by several distinguished and public-spirited gentlemen in behalf of the project, urging the importance of immediate action and the necessity of "putting it through" vigorously; and after discussing the matter at some length, a committee of three was appointed and instructed to wait upon our citizens and solicit the temporary loan of whatever each might choose to advance, to the aggregate amount of $5,000. The committee went to work with a promptness and willingness truly commendable, and we understand that the requisite amount was subscribed in a short time; and we doubt not that the work will be pushed forward without delay. It is in the hands of energetic business men—men who have an interest at stake and the prosperity of Clarksville at heart, and we have everything to hope, nothing to fear, from their prompt, decisive and sagacious action in the matter.

SPECIAL NOTICES.
DEMO STRON.—The undersigned has engaged to remain with Messrs. Finley & Stewart, and give his personal attention to the business, as in old times. He therefore would respectfully request his old friends and customers to continue their patronage with the new firm, where every effort will be made to give satisfaction. TOWNSEND A. THOMAS.

LET those who have doubted the virtues of Bull's Cedron Bitters, if any such there be, read the following certificate from gentlemen well known in this community, and doubt no more.

Its general introduction into the army will save the lives of thousands of our soldiers.

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 3, 1863.
We, the undersigned, have seen the good effects produced by the use of Dr. John Bull's Cedron Bitters in cases of general debility and prostration of the system, and believe its general use would prevent disease and relieve much suffering. Among our soldiers particularly would this be the case, if especially those who are exposed to malarial influence in the southern climate.

LETTER LIST.—LETTERS REMAINING UNCLAIMED in the Post Office at Clarksville, Tenn., on 3d day of November, 1865.

To obtain any of these letters, the applicant must call for "Advertised Letters," give the date of this list, and pay two cents for advertising.

"If not called for within ONE MONTH, they will be sent to the Letter Office, where they will remain until called for, at the residences of owners, in cities and large towns, may be secured by observing the following rules:

"1. Direct letters plainly to the street and number, as well as the post-office and State.

"2. Head letters with the writer's post-office and State, street and number, sign them plainly with full name, and request that answers be directed accordingly.

"3. Letters to strangers or transient visitors in a town or city, whose special address may be unknown, should be marked, in the lower left-hand corner, with the word 'Transient.'

"4. Place the postage stamp on the upper right-hand corner, and leave space between the stamp and direction for post-marking without interfering with the writing.

"5. A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days when written or printed with the writer's name, post office, and State, across the left-hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with at the rate of prepaid rate of postage, payable when the letter is delivered to the writer.—Sec. 28, Law of 1863."
